

■ ELECTION

November 2 is Election Day

“Nobody will ever deprive the American people of the right to vote except the American people themselves, and the only way they could do this is by not voting.”

— Franklin D. Roosevelt

In the United States we are given one of the most extraordinary opportunities available to mankind. We are given the chance to decide who we want to represent us, choosing what path our government takes. Even today, many people in the world can only dream about having this right, but, unfortunately, too many of us take it for granted.

Think your vote doesn't count? Consider the 1998 primary election when Mark McCormick lost to Tom Vilsack by less than two votes per precinct. The same is true for Richard Nixon who lost the 1960 presidential election by only one vote per precinct. Voting does not take that much time, and your vote can make a huge difference. Make sure your voice is heard.

This year's general election will take place Tuesday, Nov. 2. Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 9 p.m. statewide. For first-time voters in Story County, you may register to vote so your name is on the election register (saving you time at the polls) by completing a voter registration form and submitting it to the County Auditor's office by 5 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 23. Same-day voter registration is also available if you bring approved identification and proof of address with you to your assigned polling location. Absentee voting is also available if you will not be in town or you want to vote early. However you must submit a request for absentee ballot (available at ameschamber.com) to the Story County Auditor by 5 p.m. Friday, Oct. 29.

The Ames Chamber of Commerce is again committed to providing our members the resources needed to easily participate in the voting process. In addition to the information listed on our website (ameschamber.com) — including voter registration, request for absentee ballots, polling locations and more — we are giving you the opportunity to hear directly from many of the candidates through four different forums so you can make an educated decision on Election Day.

Mark your October calendars and register as soon as possible to attend these upcoming candidate forums open to Ames Chamber members:

- Gubernatorial candidate forum: Former Gov. Terry Branstad (R), Noon to 1 p.m. Friday, Oct. 1.

- Gubernatorial candidate forum: Gov. Chet Culver (D), 2:30 p.m. Friday, Oct. 8.

- State candidate forum: Iowa House and Senate candidates, noon to 1:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 14, $5 registration required (includes lunch) by Oct. 12.

- County candidate forum: (Treasurer, supervisors and attorney candidates), noon to 1:30 p.m., Thursday, Oct. 21, $5 registration required (includes lunch) by Oct. 19.

All forums will be at Oakwood Road Church, 2400 Oakwood Road, and will be broadcast on 1430 KASI radio. Ames Chamber members may register online at www.ameschamber.com

For more information on voting and the candidates running in this November's elections, visit the websites of the Ames Chamber at ameschamber.com, or the Story County Auditor at storycounty.com/auditor. See you at the polls!

The mission of the Ames Chamber of Commerce is to provide our members services that strengthen the economic vitality in Ames and enhance the quality of life in our community.

■ CHINA

China business mission is a success

The business mission to China jointly sponsored by the Ames Chamber of Commerce and the Greater Des Moines Partnership was, by all accounts, a major success. The international expedition, which took place Sept. 1 to 9, was attended by 34 people from the Ames-Des Moines corridor representing industry, government, education and nonprofit entities.

Participants attended a session on “How to Do Business in China” while spending time at the U.S. Consulate in Shanghai and heard from trade officials on the best ways to enter the fastest-growing economy on the globe. The delegation also attended the Shanghai Expo with the highlight being a visit to the USA pavilion. From Shanghai, the group traveled to Beijing, where there was a reception for a number of Iowa companies that have operations in the Beijing region and others who have ties to Iowa (either working for Iowa companies with operations there or alumni of Iowa State University).

The Central Iowa contingent also attended the VIV Expo in Beijing, which was an industry trade show focusing on feed mills, poultry farms, pig farms, cattle farms, fish farms, agricultural farms, meat slaughtering companies, meat processing companies, feed ingredients and additives companies, farm and industry equipment suppliers, distribution, and wholesalers. With the strong presence of crop research and animal science in the Ames-Des Moines Corridor, this event was a logical stop for the regional economic development effort. Staff from the Ames EDC and the Greater Des Moines Partnership distributed materials translated in Chinese to all show exhibitors, and follow-up will be conducted in the coming weeks on a number of visits that occurred.

“The mission, the first of its kind for the two organizations, was intended to serve as a familiarization tour to educate our members with the hope that we can build upon this event to do more like this in the future,” said Dan Culhane, President and CEO of the Ames Chamber of Commerce and Economic Development. “While we have yet to debrief fully on the China mission. Our hope is that we will embark upon a similar venture in 2011 to another country that will catch the interest of our respective memberships.”

AMES YOUTH

Ames among the nation's 100 Best for Young People

The efforts of Ames Chamber Education Connections committee and civic and community leaders were honored on Sept. 21 when America's Promise Alliance, the nation's largest partnership organization dedicated to youth and children, announced that Ames had been named a winner of the alliance's 100 Best Communities for Young People competition presented by ING. Ames' 2010 recognition marks the second win for Ames in the competition. Ames was first named one of the 100 Best in 2008. (There was no competition in 2009.)

The 100 Best designation recognizes those communities that make youth a priority by implementing programs that help keep children in school and prepare them for college and the 21st century workforce. In addition to enhancing local educational opportunities, most winning communities have taken steps to facilitate improved access to health care for its young people, encourage civic engagement and supply developmental resources that create better places for young people to live and grow.

Ames was selected as one of the nation's 100 Best because of its unique programming established to support its young people. Outside of school, organizations such as the city of Ames, Iowa State University, the Ames Chamber of Commerce, Boys and Girls Club, and Youth and Shelter Services open their doors with opportunities for youth to be engaged, educated and challenged for success through their countless programs, clubs, organizations, policies, initiatives and support services

In addition to the 100 Best distinction, Ames will receive two road signs identifying Ames as one of 100 Best, as well as a trophy to be presented to local officials later this year.

Class begins for Youth Leadership Ames

The Ames Chamber Education Connections Committee and Young Professionals of Ames are excited to announce the launch of their new program, Youth Leadership Ames. Following in the footsteps of the Chamber's successful Leadership Ames program, in its 24th year, the Youth Leadership Ames program is designed to develop the community leadership potential of area high school students in the Chamber member school districts.

Gilbert and Ames High School sophomores were invited to complete an application to be eligible for participation during their junior year of high school (2010-11 school year). A selection committee comprised of Gilbert and Ames school administrators, guidance counselors and students, Leadership Ames alumni, Young Professionals of Ames board members, and a representative from the business community reviewed applications and selected this year's class.

The first session for Youth Leadership Ames was Sept. 8 at the 4-H Center in Madrid, where the youth were led through ice breaker and team building exercises.

In the next few months, the youth will be learning about non-profit organizations, city government, health care, financial management and leadership development.

Education Connections and Young Professionals of Ames are pleased to announce this year's inaugural Youth Leadership Ames class: Ayeesha Ali, Ames High School; Sarah Azam, Gilbert High School; Sarah Baker, Gilbert High School; Bo Brammer, Ames High School; Melanie Chang, Ames High School; John Elsenbat, Ames High School; Kay Harper, Gilbert High School; Carlton Jones, Gilbert High School; Katelyn Thilges, Ames High School; and Zech Walker, Ames High School.

How can the Main Street Cultural District improve the look and feel of downtown Ames?

- The Design Committee has been successfully partnering with the Ames Foundation to implement the downtown beautification project and begin downtown cleanup programs focused on cigarette butts. To build on these beautification efforts, consider expanding cleanup efforts into formal events.

- Use National Register for Historic Places listing as foundation for educational opportunities and promotion of façade improvement. In cooperation with the Ames Historic Preservation Commission, the city is preparing to complete a National Register of Historic Places nomination for the downtown district.

THE ART OF COMMUNITY

Enter your creative perspective of 'Thriving in Ames'

It's time to get those creative juices flowing! We're looking for photographers, painters, illustrators, graphic designers, sculptors and others who will use their talents to create original masterpieces surrounding the theme of Thriving in Ames.

The submission period opens this month and runs through Friday, Nov. 19. The juried selections and Best of Show piece will be announced during the Ames Chamber's "Gala-ry" event in February.

The art competition, first announced earlier this summer, will culminate with a Best of Show prize selected by a jury and presented to the artist along with a commission award of $1,000. The winning piece will also be reproduced as a limited edition print, signed and numbered by the artist, available for sale during the February Annual Event.

In addition, all the jury-selected submissions of the contest will be photographed and published in a coffee table book published and distributed by the Ames Chamber of Commerce. This book will be the perfect gift for friends, family, clients and alumni who will appreciate the beauty and diversity of our community.

The competition is open to any Story County resident, but all entries must be submitted through an Ames Chamber of Commerce member organization (or individual member). For a list of members, and for full details on contest guidelines and entry forms, please go to our website at www.ameschamber.com and look under "Art of Community"
